IS THE STUDENT A SHIRKER?

The University has in its rank of students many who are earning their way through the years of their education. These students are contributing to their own support, but are they earning the financial support which is being given them by their employers?

In a talk before the weekly luncheon of the Columbia Commercial Club Thursday, this statement was made by Walter H. Braselton, superintendent of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Company's Columbia factory:

"There isn't a man in this world who is more in sympathy with the man who is seeking an education than myself. But in fairness to the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Company and as a guardian of their interests, I must get full value for every dollar expended. We will employ student labor as long as we get full value."

Is the working student of the University giving his employer or is he taking the easiest way around, earning his salary with the least expenditure of energy? Mr. Braselton's statement would indicate that some students are doing the latter.

The greatest virtue of a man is his honesty, his ability to play the game and to play it square. Any student who is working his way through college and is not giving value received for his salary is stealing from his employer. This does not mean that he must necessarily be a genius, but it does mean that he should conscientiously perform to the best of his ability any task which his employer may require of him.

Working while going to school is as much of an education as is the instruction received in the class room. The habits formed during this period are those which the student will possess in later life. If the student is a shirker, getting through in the easiest manner possible, his life will be that of a shirker.

Any man with courage and industry enough to fight his way to the top by earning his education is man enough to give his employer value received for his salary.

GETS VIEWS OF TWO M. U. MEN

St. Joseph Wants One of the Twelve Land Banks.

W. H. Baker of the extension department of the University of Missouri Agricultural College, was one of the representatives selected to aid in presenting the advantages of St. Joseph, Mo., in the claim for the establishment in that city of one of the twelve land banks to be organized by the federal government in twelve districts covering the entire United States.

Mr. Baker said that his experience has shown that Missouri needs money to develop its resources and he thought that this money could be obtained from the land banks. He also felt that Missouri farmers are willing to co-operate in this and other things.

S. D. Gromer, assistant professor of agricultural economics at this University told of the needs of Missouri, in the way of co-operation. Mr. Gromer said that in Boone County, which he thought to be a typical county in Missouri, loans of $500, or less, command 8 per cent interest, and in addition 2 per cent for overhead charges, making about 11 per cent that the farmers pay. Under the federal act not more than 6 per cent can be charged and the interest may be even lower.

On Centennial Committee.

At the request of Floyd Shoemaker, secretary of the State Historical Society, Maj. Gen. T. C. Love of Springfield, commanding the Missouri division, United Confederate Veterans, has made appointments among the veterans to serve on the Missouri state centennial committee. The appointments are: John B. Stone, Kansas City; John W. Halliburton, Carthage; L. S. Plateau, St. Louis, and W. C. Bronaugh, Kansas City. Major General Love is also a member of the veterans' committee, at Mr. Shoemaker's request.

ALLY COWS HAVE HYSTERICS WHEN BAND PLAYS WAGNER

The question of a cow's temperament led P. M. Brandt, assistant to Dean Mumford of the College of Agriculture, to give a Kansas City reporter some extremely interesting as well as technical knowledge last week. Mr. Brandt is cattle superintendent at the Dairy Show at Kansas. At this show there was a brand which at times has caused some of the fine cows there to throw hysterical fits. A committee formerly requested Mr. Brandt to have the band "tone down" its music. "Something pastoral," they said they wanted. The Kansas City Star quotes Mr. Brandt as follows on a cow's appreciation of music.

"I'll tell you," said Mr. Brandt, in an impressive half-whisper, "exactly the trouble. They were exhibiting Guernseys and Ayrshires. Now, if they'd been exhibiting Holsteins, it would've been different. A Holstein appreciates Wagner. But Guernseys and Ayrshires—well, a Guernsey's English and an Ayrshire's Scotch. What could you expect?" "Sensitive?" repeated Mr. Brandt. "Well, I should say they are. No animal is more sensitive than a cow. You ought to see those Ayrshires when they play 'Auld Lang Syne,' or 'Campbells Are Coming.' And the other day, when they rendered the overture from 'William Tell' those Brown Swiss were so tickled you couldn't hold 'em. That's why Ayers is so worked up about it. As for the Guernseys and Jerseys, all they need

"But seriously, Mr. Brandt—" Mr. Brandt looked hurt.

"I am serious," he said. "While the Jerseys are being exhibited, I'm not going to let him play a darn thing except the 'Marseillaise.' You see, the English and French are allies, and while that'll please the cows, it won't excite 'em. Or maybe I'll pick something neutral like 'I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier.' Or, I'll tell you

But the questioner had given up.

WAR PRICES AT THE COMMONS

Cost of Eating There Goes Up About One Cent a Dish.

The prevailing high prices for food-stuffs have caused a few increases in the cost of edibles at the University Commons. Other advances may have to be made next week, according to Stanley Sisson, manager.

"So far," said Mr. Sisson, "about a half-dozen dishes have been increased one cent over the prices of last year. Bills from the storeroom and grocery stores for this week's purchases will not be available until tomorrow, and it can not be determined until then whether the Commons is breaking even at the present prices. For nearly all our raw materials we are paying considerably more this year than last year."

The number of meals served at the Commons so far this year is about 200 less than for the corresponding days of 1915. On the third day of last year's session the cash register clicked 1,720 times, while for the corresponding day this year only 1,497 meals were served.

The hardest work around the Commons now is "breaking in" the new help. Mr. Sisson says. "We are now employing about 40 students," said Mr. Sisson, "and ninety-nine per cent of them seem to be Freshmen."

BOONE HAMS ALWAYS WIN

Mr. Nelson Urges Other Counties To Try To Capture Honor.

That the best specimens can be entered in the annual ham show to be held during Farmers' Week at the University this coming winter, W. L. Nelson of the State Board of Agriculture urges Missouri farmers to keep their smokehouse doors locked. Three times Boone County has been successful in the ham and bacon show in competition with entries from all over the state. Mr. Nelson wants to see some ham expert take the honor away from Boone. He even thinks that he might induce the farmers of his own county, Cooper, to try harder than ever before to take down the prizes amounting to $150 offered by the State Board of Agriculture.

Only cured hams and bacon may be entered in the show. Hams from hogs killed this fall cannot be shown. That is why Mr. Nelson urges that farmers all over Missouri keep the "pride of the smokehouse" for the show.

CATCH A ST. LOUIS SLAYER

One of the Gang, Hunted for Murdering Policeman, Is Arrested.
